VOLUME 1 ISSUE 2 SEPTEMBER 2011

SEASIDE ROCK HOLIDAY CLUB

During the last week in July 2011, Cathcart Trinity was transformed into the venue for the Seaside Rock Holiday Club which was checked out by 107 children of primary school age. An amazing team of 60 multi-talented and committed volunteers made it all happen - almost seamlessly!

The football training ran over three afternoons and was led by three talented young guys who trained up 17 young people ranging from P4 to S6. A few cheerleaders supported too.

On four evenings Cathcart Baptist Church became a welcoming youth café venue complete with nail bar, games consoles, rubber ducks and a tuck shop. Over the four evenings we saw thirty-seven young people. The cafe was supported by 21 fabulous volunteers some of whom were involved in the morning and in the afternoon too.

Over the course of the week our theme was Peter the Rock. Each day - morning and night - we were challenged to think about where we should put our faith: in Jesus the Rock.

Friday night was an evening of celebration with children, young people and families sharing some of the highlights including the hilarious Golden Palace drama. The evening was rounded off with a BBQ and good chats.

A big thank you to all who made Seaside Rock, ROCK!

HILARITY

This year I volunteered to be a trainee leader at Lendrick Muir (LM1). This was a great experience for me and just a good laugh in general. I would say that the highlights of the week were seeing God working within the campers and the hilarious banter I had with the other leaders. This varied from having my face painted with jam and then toast stuck to it to how unfairly competitive we leaders got when we played games of Leaders vs. Campers. I would say the funniest but most embarrassing part would be when Cara Wightman turned to me whilst talking to the camp, with a microphone so everyone could hear, and said very loudly and clearly to me, "What's that programme you watch with that girl in it who you think's dead hot?"

A GREAT WEEK

This summer I was a leader at LM1, an SU holiday camp at Lendrick Muir. Throughout the week there were fears faced (camping outside for the night with 15 girls and 2 other leaders, and lots of beasties!), worship and teaching times, fantastic activities, friendships made and lots of banter. All in all a great week!

BLESSINGS IN VÁC

This summer I was blessed by following God on a great adventure to Hungary. I prayed that God would use me as he wanted and fill me with courage. I was part of the OMS team teaching English to teenagers in the beautiful city of Vác. God blessed the team by 'gelling us together' quickly. My fellow Christians came from different walks of life and nationalities yet we shared the same purpose: not just to teach English with excellence, but to serve God with all we had and introduce Him to our students. It was my privilege to share God's love with these teenagers and have conversations about why Jesus died for them, in English! Some of the students already had personal relationships with the Lord; but everyone, myself included, left the camp knowing more about God's love and grace. On our last night at camp, a student named Saca told us she had come to camp to learn English, she did not expect that this camp would change her life! Saca accepted the Lord into her heart. I want to thank everyone who supported me and prayed for me. I felt comfortably upheld in prayer and the love and support of my church family back home in Cathcart.

SHARING GOOD NEWS

August 5th-29th was a really exciting time as a group of 12 young people (18-30 years) from the UF church and 12 others from Namibia, Botswana, Zimbabwe and South Africa travelled together all over Scotland spreading God's word. Each week the group was split into different teams, working on various projects in different areas. Projects included holiday clubs, teen programmes and cultural evenings, as well as detached work in the community through music and drama presentations. We spent the weekends together enjoying sightseeing trips and ceilidhs before heading off to the next week's projects. Our prayer is that hearts will have been touched through sharing the good news, and we hope this mission has stimulated and encouraged the church here in Scotland to be involved in outreach activities more often and help us realise we are part of a world church.

BOOSTED

To be able to go and experience mission in Thailand has been so gripping for me. Seeing the children wanting to engage in conversation with the team and when handing out tracts and bibles, taking them and running away and reading them, has boosted my confidence that God is at work in and across Thailand.

A LOT OF FUN

This summer I was part of a fantastic team at the Holiday Club which focused on the character of Peter. The children who attended engaged enthusiastically in the games, activities, drama and crafts. It was always great to them listen attentively during Bible inputs and to see them eager to learn their memory verses. Working with the children is rewarding and a lot of fun! They help release your inner child! ☺
